

Save What Matters™

from 2 November 2011

Save My Numbers™ will be replaced on 2nd November 2011 with an enhanced service called 'Save What Matters™'. Save What Matters™ allows you to back up the key data from your mobile phone – including your photos, music, videos and contacts. (Please note we cannot back up videos or music from an iPhone and instead suggest you sync with iTunes in order to do this).

Depending on your handset, once Save What Matters™ is set up, if your phone goes missing or gets stolen you can lock it remotely, wipe the data from it, and even track the location to help you find it again.

Whilst you are waiting to register for Save What Matters™ on the 2nd November you are still able to enjoy all the benefits of Save My Numbers*. Simply register your details following the easy step by step process.

Data charges may apply – please check with your service provider or connect to Wi-Fi before syncing your phone.

* We won't be transferring data from Save My Numbers™ when Save What Matters™ is introduced, and as a result from 2nd November 2011 any data already registered with Save My Numbers™ may be unavailable. If you have already registered data using Save My Numbers™ we'll remind you by SMS when we introduce the new service. Remember to register for Save What Matters™ when it launches on 2nd November and sync your phone to ensure all your contacts, photos and more are backed up.
